THREATS OF ASSAULT ON MS JENNIFER OFORIWAA QUEEN

We note with concern an incident that occurred on United Television's (UTV) Adekye Nsroma morning show on April 17, 2025, where a panel member representing Movement for Change, Mr. Hopeson Yaovi Adorye, threatened to assault Ms. Jennifer Oforiwaa Queen (Deputy Director of Communications) representing the New Patriotic Party.

We condemn Mr. Adorye's actions in no uncertain terms. Ghana has made significant strides in driving women's political participation and amplifying their voices in our national discourse. Therefore, threats of assault or actual assault on women for expressing their political views must not be tolerated.

Tolerance has been a key element in Ghana's democracy, and we should continue to promote tolerance and respect for all in our national discourse.

We urge United Television and other media houses to guard against such unprogressive, undemocratic, and primitive conduct on their shows. This is a democracy, and people's rights to free speech and expression must not be curtailed whatsoever.

Thank you.

Signed

Communications Director.
